JAP FLEET RUNS FROM U. S. MIGHT

Chased the Japs—Adm. William F. Halsey, Jr. (left), commander of the United States Third Fleet, welcomes Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher, commander of the Third Fleet carrier force, aboard his flagship to confer just prior to the Pacific fleet strikes which drew the Japanese fleet from its hiding place long enough to see the might of American sea power, and then go scooting back again.

Japs Run From U. S. Fleet

By CHARLES H. McMURTRY

PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 17 (AP)—Units of the Japanese fleet approached the Formosa area where the Halsey Third Fleet wreaked great damage on the Nipponese aircraft, shipping and ground installations, but turned tail and fled when it discovered the power of the American armada.

Adm. Nimitz announced the withdrawal to safety of Japanese warships in a communique which related tersely: "On discovering our fighting strength unimpaired, they avoided action and have withdrawn toward their bases." This flat refusal to engage the mighty Halsey-Mitscher force belies radio Tokyo's boast that Imperial warships not only engaged the American fleet but claimed sinking up to 52 ships, including 11 carriers.

(Superfortresses of the 20th Air Force today attacked military targets on Formosa for the third time in four days, the War Department announced. Details will be released as soon as information becomes available, said Gen. Arnold.)

Nimitz also disclosed that Adm. Mitscher's carrier pilots destroyed 164 enemy aircraft in the Oct. 13, 14, 15 bombings of Formosa and in defending the carrier force against torpedo attacks.

Nimitz earlier said two American ships were damaged by Japanese aerial torpedoes. This communique reporting "our fighting strength unimpaired" substantiates his earlier statement regarding minor damage, and further contradicts Tokyo claims.

"During the fighting between our carrier task forces and the enemy air forces based on shore in the Ryukyus, Formosa and Luzon from Oct. 10 until the time of this communique," Nimitz elaborated, "there has been no damage of consequence to our battleships or carriers. However, two medium sized ships were hit by aircraft torpedoes and are retiring from the area.

"Fortunately the personnel casualties in these two ships were small."

Headquarters correspondents interpreted "medium sized ships" to indicate cruisers or destroyers.

Adding to his previous communiques, Nimitz reported 191 enemy planes attacked one of our task groups off Formosa by day and by night in the Oct. 13-15 period.

Of the 191 Japanese planes, 95 were shot down by American fighters and anti-aircraft fire while "we lost five planes," Nimitz reported.

Total Japanese planes destroyed by Halsey-Mitscher forces in the Ryukyu-Formosa-Luzon strikes are estimated now at 828 to 843. In addition, 37 enemy planes were estimated probably destroyed.

Gen. MacArthur announced today that his land-based planes, joining in the destruction encircling the Philippines, netted the greatest bag of enemy aircraft ever brought down in any single Southwest Pacific raid.

They bagged between 49 and 67 in the fourth mass raid in two weeks on Balikpapan.

"A U. S. 14th Air Force advanced base, China," said that a single B-24 Liberator blew up a heavy Japanese cruiser and sank a destroyer in a 45-minute, low-level attack on a six-ship convoy moving toward Formosa. Farnsworth added that the bomber probably put a crimp in Japanese naval reinforcement of that island stronghold.

The Liberator attack jackknifed the cruiser, filling the air with shattered armorplate and other debris, the dispatch said. Evidently the bombs touched off her magazine.

PACIFIC—Jap warships (broken arrow) approached Formosa, but turned and fled attacking U. S. Third Fleet. Black arrows from carrier symbol indicate carrier strikes against Ryukyu Islands, Formosa and the Philippines in the past week.

Cologne Bombed For 6th Day

LONDON, Oct. 17 (AP)—More than 1300 American Flying Fortresses and Liberators bombed Cologne today for the sixth time in six days.

Swift Mosquito bombers flew through the smoke of previous explosive-set fires and bombed the great Prussian city of 768,426 on the Rhine before dawn. Cologne has vast rail yards which funnel supplies to the western front and it is the home of the Humschel tank works and the Bettenhausen ordnance works.

HITLER SPEECH EXPECTED

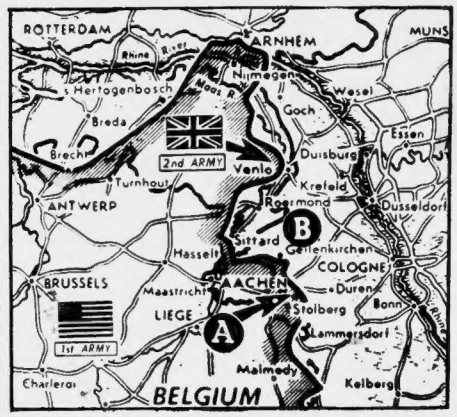
NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (INS)—The London radio reported Hitler will probably deliver his first speech in months at the funeral of Field Marshal Rommel.

TOPS IN ETO—Col. Hubert Zemke of Missoula, Mont., is now the leading fighter ace in the European theater of war. He has 28 enemy planes to his credit, 19½ in the air and 8½ on the ground.

British Troops Occupy Athens

ROME, Oct. 17 (AP)—British troops, landed from more than 150 warships, patrolled the streets of Athens today after breaking up clashes between rival Greek factions.

The fleet of warships included units of the Royal Navy, and Canadian, South African, Greek, French and Polish naval craft.



WESTERN FRONT—The 50-mile front extending north from completely encircled (A) Aachen was aflame with action today as American and British forces probed the Nazi line for a weak spot. Germans admitted Allied action along this front . . . and claimed the drive is a prelude to "the coming battle of (B) Geilenkirchen."

Nazi-Aachen Attack Fails

LONDON, Oct. 17 (AP)—U. S. troops in a night-long battle threw back the heaviest German counter-assault yet mounted east of Aachen, and at dawn today still held their lines ringing the dying city.

Fifty miles north British forces fought into the Dutch town of Venray, eight miles from the German frontier at one gateway to the Rhine-Ruhr region.

The Nazi counterblow near Aachen sprang forward late yesterday and reached a peak near midnight.

Berlin radio declared the Americans were preparing a new offensive. German artillery was rushed up.

American-British pressure increased along a 50-mile front, from Venray to Aachen. An Allied tactical authority likened the situation to that which preceded August's Normandy breakthrough.

Tommies fought house to house for Venray, a few miles from the Maas (Meuse) river, and other columns approached from north and east.

Canadian troops advanced more than a half mile above the Leopold canal in the push to clear the German pocket south of the Schelde estuary and open approaches to Antwerp. The Germans began withdrawing today to a new defense line.

On the U. S. Third Army sector to the north, the Germans west of Metz with loudspeakers called on the Americans to surrender or "be annihilated" within three hours. The ultimatum expired, nothing happened, and the silence remained unbroken amid a steady rain which filled foxholes.

The Allied tactical authority at supreme headquarters in Paris said the present phase of the western front battle in the Aachen-Venray area and elsewhere is not a period of lull, even though Allied gains have been small.

Maintenance of increasing and shifting pressure means, the tactical authority said, that somewhere the German defenses are going to give way, since the Allies are keeping the offensive.

Nazis Admit New Red Drive Reaches E. Prussia Border

LONDON, Oct. 17 (AP)—A great new Russian offensive has opened and has reached the East Prussian border northeast of the Lithuanian town of Vilkaviskis, the German communique acknowledged today.

The drive was on a 25-mile front on both sides of the town by masses of Russian infantry, tanks and fighter bombers striking after a drumfire barrage lasting several hours. The Germans asserted 145 tanks were destroyed in opening phases of the battle.

"Large-scale troop concentrations had been observed for days past," the enemy broadcast said. "They now have started their storm against the German defense lines."

Vilkaviskis is 12 miles from the central section of the East Prussian border.

Other Russian troops, besieging Memel, are threatening the rail city of Tilsit in East Prussia.

To the south, Russian and Yugoslav Partisans were fighting the last phase of the battle of Belgrade in the streets of that capital. The whole German position in Yugoslavia was placed in the greatest jeopardy by the capture of the rail center of Nis.

Hungarian Chief Joins Soviets

LONDON, Oct. 17 (AP)—The official German news agency DNB reported today that the commander-in-chief of the First Hungarian army, Maj. Gen. Bela Miklos Von Dalnok, had "gone over to the Soviets," together with his chief of staff, Maj. Keri.

Conditions remained chaotic in Hungary, where invading Russian troops fought within 50 miles of Budapest, and it was questionable whether the Germans could expect any further effective military assistance from this last remaining ally.

Berlin asserted that "several ladies belonging to the female staff of Dalnok's headquarters also joined the Soviets, taking with them all the money of the Hungarian First army."

RULES HUNGARY—Ferenc Szalasi, pro-Nazi, heads a newly-formed Hungarian government as acting regent and prime minister, according to a Budapest announcement.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower is expected to turn over to the De Gaulle administration in a few days formal authority over all the territory of metropolitan France except some port areas and active combat zones.

Army Nurse Tells Of Yank Courage

By PAULINE WARREN

A gentle-spoken Army nurse home from battle for a brief leave today had a different sort of tale to tell than those given out in communiques or by returned young heroes. Lt. Audrey Sisson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emerson B. Sisson of Maynard st., Arlington, was at an improvised hospital in New Guinea during the Hollandia and Biak campaigns and her impartial eyewitness account of what happens to our boys after they are felled by the Japs is one to make the home-front proud of them.

"There's something about our kids," she reminisced a bit huskily at her home today. "They just never give in. Even when they're dying they have a quip on their lips."

"There was one 19-year-old, blinded in battle, who kept his ward always laughing. He clowned all the time and the other wounded loved him and laughed and got better quicker.

"But what sticks in my mind is the way the boys take care of each other. 'Take care of my buddie in the next bed' is the favorite plea, even of the desperately wounded. As soon as a boy is up, an arm or a leg amputated, he starts right in waiting on the rest of the crowd in his ward.

"The wouned even used to plead to do K. P. for us so they could have our small kitchen at night to make fudge—three of them became very adept and it was marvelous fudge. No one knows how they got the materials, but they did."

"The hospital grew like a mushroom, Lt. Sisson said. The site was a former Jap airfield. Tents were up within 48 hours and after that barracks were built.

"But every morning there was a new tent," she said, "as battle casualties increased."

Asked how the girls managed under tropical conditions, she said:

"We never gave up our lipsticks, although we had to give up about everything else. The heat is so terrific your skin is moist all the time and you can't use even powder or rouge. The lipsticks got messy, too, but it pleased the boys so that we never gave them up.

"Everybody got used to bugs and snakes, but the heat always remained a hazard.

"One nurse said she could cut hair, but it always turned out into a GI haircut. We5d try so hard

Ah, Green Mart Blacker'n Black

By TOM PHELAN

FEDERAL BUILDING, Boston, Oct. 17—First we had the black market and now it's the green market, a shudderingly sinful manifestation among us, indeed, if federal officials have their facts right.

Some knave has stolen 300 bushels of green beans from the good farmers of Cummington, near Northampton.

The FBI in Minneapolis, as well as federal officials here and in New York, are trying to run him down, for the beans were in interstate shipment when last seen.

A western Massachusetts trucker who the farmers vow they hired to transport the beans to the New York market, is under questioning by FBI in Minneapolis.

The agents are trying to find out how heovershot a city the size of New York and found himself rolling into Minnesota. He didn't have he green beans with him when he was picked up. Moreover, the Cummington farmers say they have no green bean customers that far west.

The New York buyers who had been waiting for the beans assert they never saw them.

It has been decided the trucker will be sent to federal authorities in New York for questioning as to missing the city by such a wide margin.

Meanwhile, suspicion here is, the beans are rattling around in the new green market or have been eaten by innocent violators of OPA price regulations whose money never found its way back to the irate growers of Cummington.

HAVANA, Oct. 17 (AP)—The National Observatory said in a advisory that there are indications the Caribbean hurricane is turning slowly toward the northwest after a day long westward drift.

The bulletin, describing the storm as of increasing intensity with its center at present 130 miles south of the Isle of Pines, said it offered the gravest threat to Cuba's western provinces of Havana and Pinar Del Rio, the Yucatan Peninsula and the Florida Straits.

An 81-year-old cousin of Abraham Lincoln, Mrs. Caroline Banks Hitchcock, of the Back Bay, visited the election commission offices at City Hall today and registered so she can vote for Gov. Dewey for president.

A native of Lowell but a resident of a Back Bay hotel in recent years, Mrs. Hitchcock was accompanied to City Hall by Rep. Charles J. Innes, of the Back Bay.

"Abraham Lincoln was the first Republican President of the United States and I have always believed in the principles which he advocated," Mrs. Hitchcock said, after completing the registration formality. "Gov. Dewey also is a believer in those principles so I know he must be right. Therefore, I am registering to vote for Gov. Dewey for President."

Chaos Deal's Plan--Dewey

EN ROUTE TO ALBANY WITH DEWEY, Oct. 17 (AP)—Gov. Dewey changed his campaign pace today in preparation for a forthcoming discussion of foreign policy issues after an applause-punctuated declaration in St. Louis last night that the New Deal offers only "deliberately planned, noisy chaos and bungling in the days ahead."

Aides said the New York Governor plans a dispassionate discussion of the problems of maintaining future peace at the New York Herald-Tribune forum tomorrow night, as a departure from the full stride attacks on President Roosevelt and the New Deal which he renewed in St. Louis.

Dewey told a cheering crowd which overflowed the 11,500-seat Kiel Auditorium the New Deal has failed not only at home but abroad and demanded to know:

"Can an administration which is filled with quarreling and backbiting where we can see it be any better abroad where we cannot see it?"

Hundreds stood jammed in the aisles of the huge auditorium as the GOP nominee spoke. A long torchlight parade which wound through the streets gave Dewey's appearance in St. Louis the flavor of old-time political campaign rallies. It was by far his noisiest reception, and the audience responded vigorously when he levelled attacks on the New Deal.

Describing the Democratic regime as "the most spectacular collection of incompetent people who ever held public office at the same time," the Republican nominee said the conflict within the New Deal was illustrated by "its consistent practice of evading responsibility."

He cited again a statement by Maj.-Gen. Hershey, director of Selective Service, that "we can keep people in the Army about as cheaply as we could create an agency for them when they are out."

Republican criticism of that statement had caused President Roosevelt to be quite upset, the GOP candidate said, and to accuse Dewey of using "reckless words, based on unauthoritative sources."

Dewey then turned to a report submitted by Frederick A. Delano, the President's uncle, as chairman of the National Resources Planning Board. This report said in part that rapid demobilization of the armed forces after the war might create unemployment and depression.

Dewey quoted the board, liquidation of which subsequently was ordered by Congress, as saying: "The economic and social costs of retaining men in the services would be less than those involved in dealing with unemployment depression through civilian relief."

"So this idea of keeping men in the Army for fear that they won't get jobs after the war was in the report made public last year by Mr. Roosevelt himself," Dewey said. "The New Deal has had it in mind right along. Now let my opponent try to pass the buck to one of his assistants."

The GOP nominee said he thought that "our fighting men ought to be brought home from the armed services at the earliest possible moment after victory."

The candidate drew a howl from the crowd when he slowly enumerated, by initials, 15 agencies which he said were operating abroad. These included ACPSAHMWA, which his aides identified subsequently as the American Commission for the Preservation and Salvage of Artistic and Historical Monuments in War Areas."

Dewey also quoted 1937 remarks of Winston Churchill that Washington was waging "so ruthless a war on private enterprise that the United States is actually at the present moment leading the world back into the trough of depression."

He pledged for himself and Gov. Bricker of Ohio, an 11-point program to be carried out if they are elected in November.

This envisioned an administration—

1—"Devoted to public service instead of public bickering.

2—"Working in harmony with Congress.

3—"In which the cabinet is restored as a responsible instrument of government.

4—"In which you will not have to support three men to do one man's job.

5—"Which will root out waste and bring order out of chaos.

6—"Which will give the people of this country value received for the taxes they pay.

7—"Made up of the ablest men and women in America who will receive full authority to do their jobs and will be let alone to do them.

8—"Free from the influence of Communists and the combination of corrupt big city machines.

9—"In which the Constitution is respected so that the liberties of our people shall again be secure.

10—"With a conscience and a sincere devotion to broad social security.

11—"Which will devote itself to the single-minded purpose of jobs and opportunity for all."

Bricker Warns of Reconversion Peril

SANTA ANA, Cal., Oct. 17 (AP)—Gov. Bricker declared today the East should not be allowed to get the jump on the West in reconversion to peacetime production.

"You have heard it suggested," the Republican candidate for vice-president said in a prepared speech released by his campaign staff, "that when that time (defeat of Germany) comes, the industries of the East can be reconverted to peacetime production while you (the West) continue to produce tools of war to defeat Japan.

"I say to you that the winning of the war over Japan is the responsibility of all our country. Any other policy would delay the day of final victor. And it would also impair the economic well-being of this entire nation."

The task of reconversion from war to peace manufacturing, the Ohio Governor asserted, "like the task of winning the war, must be on a nationwide basis."

Bricker, who earlier had said he was amazed at the tremendous industrial development along the Pacific Coast, described the West as "one of the greatest assets of our nation."

He asserted the West for 12 years has been without representation in the President's cabinet and without adequate representation in federal agencies.

"As a consequence," Bricker declared, "your problems and your needs are either ignored or unknown or are woefully misunderstood in Washington."

Bricker will speak over the nationwide Blue network from San Diego tonight.

Rep. Clare Luce Here Saturday

Rep. Clare Boothe Luce will be guest at a public reception in Boston Saturday when she arrives here for her speech in behalf of the Dewey-Bricker ticket, the Republican State Committee announced today.

The congresswoman will speak in Worcester Friday night and will arrive in Boston for a press conference at the Hotel Statler at 11 a. m. Saturday.

She will be luncheon guest of the state committee at the Parker House at 1 p. m., and at 4 p. m. will attend the public reception in her honor at the Statler.

Truman to Make Informal Speech

WITH TRUMAN, En Route to San Francisco, Oct. 17 (AP)—Sen. Truman sped toward San Francisco today on the second lap of his transcontinental campaign tour after telling a Los Angeles crowd the nation should retain President Roosevelt's experience and leadership.

The Democratic vice-presidential candidate planned only a brief informal speech at the Commonwealth club in San Francisco, in contrast with what he called a major political address last night.

Vote of 400,000 Now Predicted Here

Unprecedented rush of registrants to City Hall annex today brought the prediction by the election commission that Boston will cast its biggest vote in history in the Nov. 7 election. Fully 400,000 are expected to vote.

Thus far, 27,885 new women voters and 15,628 men have registered since Sept. 25. The lists close tomorrow. The biggest vote hitherto was in the 1940 presidential election when 390,608 voters turned out.

Hyannis Planes, 5 Fliers Missing

(AP)—Three officers and two enlisted men were listed as missing today after they failed to return from Navy flights, First Naval Headquarters announced.

Two Navy torpedo planes from the auxiliarp air facility at Hyannis disappeared while engaged in a night training flight. Each contained an officer pilot and one enlisted radio man.

The Navy announced that no report was received from the planes after they took off from Hyannis and headed seaward. Search by air and surface craft as unsuccessful.

Another plane was seen by a coastguardsman to plunge into the sea about four miles off Nantucket, the Navy reported.

The coastguardman said that the pilot descended by parachute, but immediate search failed to disclose a trace of either the pilot or the plane.

Northwest Passage Voyage Sets Record

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 17 (Canadian Press)—The first voyage ever completed in a single season through the Northwest Passage across the Arctic top of America was completed last night by the 80-foot Royal Canadian Mounted Police schooner St. Roch.

It was the third successful voyage through the route charted by Roald Amundsen, famous Norwegian explorer who laid out the course in a 36-month voyage from 1903 to 1906, sailing from east to west.

Hitch-Hiker

ROCKFORD, Ill., Oct. 17 (AP) — Sen. Scott W. Lucas (D.) of Illinois, campaigning for re-election, resorted to hitchhiking last night to keep his appointment at a political rally where he was principal speaker.

Lucas was forced to abandon his car two miles from Rockford when the tread of a recapped tire flew off the right rear wheel.

But he got out on the highway and thumbed a motorist, who brought him to the meeting.

Asked if he talked politics with the motorist, Lucas said, "No—we confined our discussions to the lack of tires."

Rubin's Defense Nears Close at Death Trial

The trial of Joe Rubin, Boston night club owner charged with manslaughter in the shooting of Guy Formica, continued in Suffolk Superior Court today with the defense scheduled to complete its testimony sometime tomorrow.

Latest to take the stand for the defense was Salvatore DeCarlo, 24, of East 8th st., South Boston, a bartender in Rubin's Showtime night club and a witness to the fatal shooting.

DeCarlo testified he saw two men run toward Rubin on Warrenton st. just after the night club closed and said one of them swung on the accused owner.

"Mr. Rubin kept saying 'What do you want?' I saw a gun in Mr. Rubin's hand. It was pointed toward the ground. Then there was a flash and Formica ran across the street and fell down. Mr. Rubin told me to call the police. I was frightened."

Under cross-examination by Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle, the bartender denied he had a club under his shirt and that Rubin had told him to "give the wood" to Formica.

Earlier testimony centered about the dance done by Doris Close, 21-year-old showgirl, a friend of the victim. Rubin fired her after accusing her of being intoxicated at the final performance of the evening.

Members of the orchestra illustrated how she did her dance and drew laughs when several tripped while imitating the showgirl's final bow.

Mother's Two-Star Service Pin Silently Answers War Question

New England residents not only are well aware that a war is going on but are proud of the part they are playing on the home front and of the sacrifices they are making as their answer to the overworked query: "Don't you know there's a war on?"

Any civilian, man, woman or child, is eligible to write his or her own reaction to the irksome repetition of this nonsensical question. The writer of the best letter will be awarded a $50 War Bond, and $3 is being paid for each letter published.

Address all letters to the I-Know-There's-A-War-On Editor, Boston American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston 6, Mass. Remember, letters must not be more than 100 words in length.

"Sure, I know there's a war on," says C.M. of East Boston. "I have three brothers in the service and since the war began I have seen my mother's hair become almost white. We have no butter (so what?) but we do have the Purple Heart, which my kid brother received after being wounded in the invasion of France."

"Tonight I am mending a jagged hole on the sea jacket of my sailor son, where shrapnel went through his shoulder in the invasion of France," writes Mrs. F.S. of Stoughton. "My eyes are dim with tears, for he leaves me soon again. I have two sons in the Navy, and when I am asked that question I just smile and point to my two-star service pin. There is no more said."

"We said goodbye to my 17-year-old brother last Tuesday when he left home for the first time," reports P.M.F. of South Boston. "It was heartbreaking to watch him fighting back the tears, a boy going off to war when he should be going to school.

"I have another brother overseas and a third is a discharged marine. Do we know there's a war on? We couldn't know otherwise. We're part of it."

"I've been an Army wife for two years," says Mrs. W.F.B. of Cambridge. "The other day in a large department store I had difficulty cashing my allotment check. I had my social card and ration books for identification but they said they were insufficient. I showed my marriage certificate and was informed that wasn't any good at all. Do I know there's a war on? I sure do!"

"I know there's a war on," writes Mrs. H.M.A. of Portsmouth, N. H., "because I have two brothers, one overseas and the other in the United States after being torpedoed at sea. My husband soon will be leaving for submarine service and asked me to get him a pair of warm gloves. Thus far, I have failed but would not feel so badly except that on nearly every occasion the clerk seemed to use the war as an excuse for discourtesy. They seem to think that is patriotic."

British King Returns From Tour of Front

LONDON, Oct. 17 (AP)—Flying in a C-47 transport escorted by Spitfire fighters, King George VI returned to London last night after a five-day tour of battle areas in Holland and Belgium—his fifth visit to an active front since the war began.

Field Marshal Montgomery greeted him at an airport in Holland. He then inspected British and Canadian troops and presented a number of decorations.

Teen Girls Face Ban in Capital

WASHINGTON Oct. 17 (AP)—A suggestion that the maturity of a girl being considered by civil service for work in Washington be "estimated" before she moves here was made by the director of the government girls' residence at which 18-year-old Dorothy Berrum lived before she was attacked and slain two weeks ago.

Miss Leone M. Johnson, director of Maine Hall at Arlington Farms, government residence project housing 5000 women, offered the suggestion at Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's news conference. At the request of a reporter, Mrs. Roosevelt invited Miss Johnson and Miss Dorothea Jarecki, director of Georgia Hall, to answer questions about the life of girls at Arlington Farms, Va.

Manpower Whip Cracks on Clubs

DETROIT, Oct. 17 (AP)—Michigan's war manpower officials are cracking the whip.

A night club was ordered today to dismiss 116 employes within 24 hours. The action followed an order to a taxicab company to discharge 98 employes by Saturday.

Edward L. Cushman, state WMC director, said in both instances the individuals were hired in violation of WMC regulations and in neither case had management "made the use of women employes which we believe is indicated in this tight labor area or which is made in other cities."

Record Barrage Turned on Robots

LONDON, Oct. 17 (AP)—British coastal observers said today the heaviest ack-ack barrage of the war flooded the sky during the night as the Germans loosed flying bombs for the sixth consecutive night.

A number of the bombs were shot down by ground gunners and patrol planes.

Maj. Cook Talks In Jewish Drive

Maj. Milton Cook, a hero of Bougainville and winner of the Bronze star, was today's speaker at the first report luncheon of the 1944 Combined Jewish Appeal at the Parker House.

Captains of eight divisions made reports to Louis H. Salvage, general chairman, who predicted several teams would be over-subscribed in the first few hours of the campaign.

Maj. Cook, home after 26 months of active duty, is a former state representative from Ward 12, Roxbury. He enlisted in the field artillery in April, 1941.

Vets OK Girls Who Whistle But Ban Foolish Questions

Servicemen back from the Pacific and European theaters aren't worried a bit about young "she wolves" who whistle at soldiers and sailors—after all, there are 7,000,000 women back home without men.

The really menacing women are those who foolishly ask the wrong questions, according to a group of homecoming heroes who outlined at a Greater Boston USO meeting in New England Mutual Hall the do's and don'ts the girls at home should observe.

This group of advisers included Marine Cpl. Frank D. Marabella of Medford, Coastguardsman Theodore B. Fortier of Somerville, PFC James J. Doran of Somerville and Sgt. John J. Sullivan of Everett.

All agreed a girl never should ask a soldier how the food was at the battle fronts. All of them want to forget what they ate at places where so many of their buddies fell.

The girl who asks "How many Japs did you kill?" also is pulling a boner. Few men can truthfully answer such a question even if they wish to. Modern weapons act too quickly for a count.

But the girl who whistles after servicemen. Well, she's all right. She isn't doing a bit of harm.

Weymouth Boys Get Town Gift

Thanks to 3300 Weymouth citizens who contributed a dollar apiece to the cause, more than 2000 servicemen from that community will receive a cheery glimpse of their old home town this Christmas, whether they are overseas or in this country.

A holiday card folder, book size, containing photographs of home scenes will take the town to the soldier. About 1100 have been mailed to overseas men.

All Weymouth churches cooperated in raising the financial support, each church forming a canvassing committee of men and women.

War Dads Get FD Message

OMAHA, Oct. 17 (AP)—Describing the current war as "more of a family matter than any previous war," President Roosevelt told American War Dads today that if "there is no diminution in the effort at home, with God's help, we shall not fail."

His formal statement was read at the opening session of the national convention of the American War Dads, organized two years ago to help bridge the gap between civilians and returning servicemen.

Perjury Trial Seen In Battle of Statler

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (INS)—Counsel for the two naval officers involved in the "Battle of the Statler" demanded a full and open Senate hearing today as members of the AFL Teamsters' Union faced the probability of "perjury trials" unless they can back up their sworn statements blaming the Navy men for the famous fight.

Thomas C. Bradley, attorney for the naval officers, termed as "absolutely untrue" two AFL affidavits charging that the Navy men began the brawl after they had made "unrepeatedable remarks" about President Roosevelt.

It was the disclosure of these affidavits what caused Rep. Maas (R.) of Minnesota, ranking minority member of the House naval affairs committee, to declare that AFL union members had "better be able to back up their affidavits or there'll be some perjury trials."

Maas, who made an independent investigation, made public a letter he had received from Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal.

Forrestal gave the two young officers, Lt. Randolph Dickins, Jr., and Lt. Cmdr. James H. Suddeth, a clean bill of health when he wrote that a shore patrol report of the incident "shows that no complaint or charge of misconduct was made of either of the officers involved, and none is pending."

Nurse

to keep nice, because it meant so much to the kids, but our hair always hung in wisps. They called us Sis, Sweetheart, anything but the formal appellation of Nurse. And how they'd scheme and plan to discover our first names!

"Our kids are growing up fast out there—even the 17 and 18-year-olds—you'd notice them growing up practically over night.

"Mothers and wives and sweethearts are going to find their men changed—they have very definite ideas about their coming back. "We're through with playing around" is the main theme. There's nothing grim about them except this resolution to build a different world.

"They have indomitable ingenuity. A group of badly wounded, for instance, were so homesick for popped corn, because it reminded them of home, that they worked out some arrangement with a small gasoline stove. After that the hospital got popped corn every day—it keep them occupied and was wonderful for the morale of the other boys.

"But it's their spirit, exemplified in their constant kidding, which makes them the wonder of the world, wherever they're fighting.

"And they bear their disfigurements with gallant quips, too, until plastic surgery can make them whole again. One boy, hurt in a bombing crash, had to have a whole face, feet and hands, but, he, too, was always clowning to amuse the others.

"There is only one thing which breaks them—when they fail to hear from home. That's the hurt they can't bear. I hope every mother, every wife, every sister, every sweetheart will write and write and write—there just can't be enough letters from home. When the boys don't get them—I'd rather not tell you the unbearable anguish they go through then—it makes their physical ills seem small in comparison.

Television Seen Postwar Aid

Asserting a nationwide television system would help the American people realize postwar hopes for employment, security and prosperity, Thomas F. Joyce of the Radio Corp. of America predicted today three-fourths of the nation's families would own home television sets by 1955.

Addressing the closing session of the two-day Boston Conference on Distribution at Hotel Statler, Joyce declared television had a potential ability to stimulate the demand for consumer goods of all kinds, thereby creating more jobs.

"Full productive employment must be based on a strong, nationwide consumer demand," he said, "and not on 'made' work projects.

"Immediate postwar development of sight-and-sound broadcasting can aid the economic structure in two ways—by creating more jobs through stimulating consumer demand and by direct additional employment and increased purchasing power in the radio industry."

Other speakers at the closing session included Vergil D. Reed, research executive for the J. Walter Thompson Co.; Quentin Reynolds and Ody H. Lamborn.

Dr. H. H. Kung, Chinese finance minister, told the conference at the morning session that Chinese foreign trade was a virgin field awaiting development and declared the United States and China must do business with each other in the postwar period.

China, he said, would have to import tremendous quantities of American products and raw materials and in turn would be able to export minerals, timber and agricultural products after the recovery of Manchuria.

He said the Chinese government was drawing up an economic policy designed to raise the standard of living for the Republic's population of 450,000,000 and that China's foreign market had immense potentiality.

Try FOR AMAZING RELIEF with FENUGREEK TEA

FENUGREEK TEA IS A NATURAL HERB—NOT A DRUG!

FENUGREEK is a natural herb that has given results to many when other methods seemingly failed. It has often been said that FENUGREEK TEA is "A Cup of Good Health from the Good Earth."

A cup of this very pleasant tea is taken before meals (and upon retiring). This mixes with the food in one's stomach, thus helping to absorb by solvency, the poisons that may sometimes foster stomach troubles. It thus often acts quickly to stop gas pains, sourness and belching.

Headaches, backaches and that tired-out feeling are often caused by toxic poisons that enter the blood stream because of pockets of impurities in the intestinal tract.

Being a liquid mucus-solvent, FENUGREEK TEA naturally tends to flush out thick stagnant bile and also to assist flushing of kidneys. It is not a laxative!

FENUGREEK TEA helps flush out impurities which may have been inside you a long time. By helping to dissolve excess mucus, it can make your digestive organs feel sweet and clean. Try it today.

*If your physician has placed you on an ulcer or colitis diet you'll enjoy the soothing effects of FENUGREEK TEA.

The stomach lining is a series of small pits. Impurities cling to these pits, often causing serious disorders. The regular use of Fenugreek Tea will very often help to cleanse these impurities.

Impurities (acid and slime deposits) in kidneys are common causes of rheumatic and neuritic pains and general physical debility. 15 miles of tubing form the kidneys. Try cleansing with Fenugreek!

The liver, when sluggish and inactive, slows down the "bile flow" causing headaches and lack of energy. Instead of using often harmful "liver pills" try Fenugreek Tea—it's a natural herb product!

Q—I am a veteran of World War II and now working in a defense plant. Is it true that veterans are exempt from paying income taxes? Would also like to know if I can get another job, providing present one not satisfactory, without having to wait the usual 60 days as decreed by the WMC? L. J. M., Allston.

A—Sorry, but it is not true—wish it were; being a veteran of World War II also. WMC sometime ago issued directive lifting the freeze order on vets holding defense jobs.

Q—I have been reading your column daily and found answers to many questions without having to write you. However, I have one that bothers me. My aunt has three sons in the service and has been receiving an allotment from the oldest boy, first to enter the service.

Recently she was requested to go to Boston and prove to officials that she needed the allotment, otherwise it would be stopped. She is a widow and also has two daughters at home with her. One is able to work, the second daughter is in ill health. Can you give me any advice on this matter? M. B., Lynn.

A—The Office of Benefits and Dependence may at anytime call upon the recipient of an allotment to re-certify a dependency claim. However, I doubt if your aunt's allotment will be curbed if allotment officials are informed of this. If you need further assistance on this matter, Maj. Edward Sherman, in charge of Personnel Affairs, First Service Command Hdqrs., 808 Commonwealth ave., Boston, will help you.

Q—I have been informed that men over 35 are to be allowed the privilege of requesting discharge from the Navy. Is this authentic or just another rumor. L. F. M., Stoneham.

A—You guessed it—just another rumor.

Questions submitted to Veterans' Friend Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston 6, Mass., will be answered in this daily column.

Pat Hitchcock Shines in 'Violet' World Premiere

By PEGGY DOYLE

An old shoe of a house and a young father who had so many children he didn't know what to do about his pending proposal last night put Wilbur first-nighters in a merry mood.

"Violet," Whitfield Cook's dramatization of his own delightful "Violet" stories in Redbook, was having its world premiere. The presence in the audience of Britain and Hollywood's world-famous director, Alfred Hitchcock, lent the occasion a certain distinction for those who recognized him minus 100 pounds and now a stream-lined 200 pounds. To the Violet of the title, 15-year-old Pat Hitchcock, it meant that finally her dad had managed, between pictures and a hop from Hollywood to London, to catch her in a pre-Broadway performance.

The plot stems from Pete Grandin's discovery that after 14 years he still loves his first fiancee best of all, will marry her if she'll have him. They broke up because he wouldn't be practical and go into the laundry business but was determined to be an artist.

He has invited her to be his guest at his commodious remodelled farmhouse in Vermont. They are congratulating each other on their success, he as an artist whose paintings sell in the four figures' bracket and she as a successful concert singer. Definitely they are in the mood for love when the front-door opens and a flock of children bounce in. In a pause between Daddy do this and Daddy do that, Violet takes on the pause-for-station identification chore explaining that Daddy has had his second divorce and she belongs to the first batch of children, et cetera.

Helen Claire, the Cindy Lou of Clare Boothe's "Kiss the Boys Goodbye," and countless radio roles, is properly aghast at the news as the ex-fiancee. The arrival of the first and second wives, contrived by the bespectacled, pigtailed mental giant, Violet, provokes her into some quietly ironic retorts and the fat is in the fire . . . and Miss Claire clicks 100 per cent.

Harvey Stephens, an old friend of the first Boston critics' Hollywood junket and last seen here in "Over 21," is exactly right as the overset father up to here in children and ex-wives. He plays it straight with no nonsense and makes a really expert job of it. There'll be times when you'll feel very, very sorry for him but you can't help dying laughing at him just the same.

Young Pat Hitchcock, who was seen on Broadway in "Solitaire" two years ago, gives a new and pungent twist to the little Miss Fixit angle. She it is who garners most of the laughs, and legitimately and without any gallery-playing or mugging. She is a fine, young actress, who is determined to resist and a rare one for she wants no part of Hollywood, being wholeheartedly committed to a stage career.

In supporting roles, there was nice work by Doro Merande, John Cherry, Len Hollister, Paula Trueman, Billy Nevard, Fay Baker, Joan Vitez, Mason Adams, Carlo Robinson and youngsters Fuzzy Arlend McQuade, Martin David and Jimsey Somers. The playwright's direction and Howard Bay's atmospheric setting are other assets that promise a successful career for Albert Margolies' first Broadway production.

SONNY DUNHAM brings his popular orchestra to the RKO Boston stage on Thursday, sharing headline honors with Lula Bates, blues singer of Hit Parade fame.

'Rebecca' on Shubert Stage

By LEO GAFFNEY

"Rebecca," Daphne du Maurier's popular novel of that shadowy old mansion and its shadier past, now pops up on the stage as unconcernedly as if the movie had never been made.

In the customary order of appearance a novel becomes a play; then at the tag end of that run Hollywood moves in for the kill. Beyond that, nothing.

But now at the Shubert and under the auspices of the Subscription Series of the Theater Guild and the American Theater Society—there is a valiant attempt to give "Rebecca" a separate existence as a play.

Perhaps it can be done, but the signs and portents of opening night were not propitious. For the stage is a merciless place. It exposes the least blemish, then jeers at it.

Yes sir, there's something corny in Cornwall—and it is Manderley-by-the-Sea, where Maxim de Winter's first wife, Rebecca, was done to death just one year before he brought home a second spouse to be frightened by the consequences.

It all seemed pretty convincing in the book and even more so in the movie, wherein they really had a time, but as now presented by Bramwell Fletcher, Diana Barrymore and Florence Reed in the three principal roles there is a sense of wheezy contrivance, the acting is too ponderous and sincerely is out the window.

Not that Victor Payne-Jennings hasn't given "Rebecca" a good production nor that the principals don't do their durndest, particularly Miss Barrymore, who displays hitherto unrevealed playing technique in an emotional role.

It is the play itself. It is as dated as a coffee bag—perhaps because there have been so many pathological cases before on the stage, so many frowning old English mansions, so many threatening servants, so many British gents in tweeds wrestling down a gruesome memory.

The war undoubtedly does a lot to dilute serious plays devoted to other matters these days, for there is a real demon in the English Channel, beside which the memory of a sick sinner like Rebecca is tame.

UNSOUND

IN A GRAVE national emergency, when the people of America should be supporting the war against Totalitarianism to the fullest possible limit of their financial ability, the much-too-complacent City of Boston is frittering away seventy-five thousand dollars for a school survey which will probably benefit the next waste paper drive more than the municipal educational system.

The survey commission, headed by Dr. George E. Strayer of New York, has concluded its labors with a recommendation that the citizens of Boston abandon their practice of electing School Committee members and place their schools under the domination of a body appointed by the Mayor with the help of the Chamber of Commerce, the League of Women Voters and the presidents of four colleges.

If that is not paying seventy-five thousand dollars to be slapped in the face, what is it?

Any proposal that the electorate surrender its freedom to individuals selected without consulting the people is bound to be widely regarded as a bold and brazen assumption that the duly registered and qualified voters are not competent to exercise their traditional rights and privileges.

That has long been the political theory in Fascist Italy, Nazi Germany and Imperial Japan.

So what would the Strayer Commission have us do—install at home the absolutism which our fighting sons are shedding their blood and sacrificing their lives to destroy abroad?

INSTEAD of setting up a minor dictatorship in Boston it would be better and infinitely more American for the electorate to increase the membership of the School Committee until all the people were adequately represented and until there was a true and honest expression of popular opinions and desires.

American education is safe in the people's hands—incalculably more safe than in the hands of special interests, privileged groups and political, economic or cultural factions.

The fact that heads of colleges would be the dominating force in the School Committee nominating body proposed by Dr. Strayer and his co-surveyors is an indication that these critical gentlemen regard the influence of professional educators as superior to the people's.

Nothing could be further from the truth. It was professional educators and institutions of allegedly higher learning which installed Communistic, Fascistic and other un-American courses in the past decade, opposed such necessary patriotic measures as the Teachers' Oath Law, and fought military training for students.

And it was the PEOPLE who anticipated the country's needs long before the war proved them and consequently stepped in and put a stop to this collegiate [illegible]

For years college and university-controlled agencies have been arbitrarily setting high school standards, with the result that a great many graduates are unfit for any job requiring knowledge and training, cannot speak the foreign languages which they study for three and four years, and have only slight familiarity with such obviously essential subjects as American History.

Before even giving over their public schools lock, stock and barrel to any combination of privately endowed colleges would be a determination on the part of the people to end the educational tyranny of various colleges and universities and to oblige public schools to become PRACTICAL and USEFUL.

WE ARE NOT impressed with the Strayer Commission's complaint that members are using the Boston School Committee as a springboard to higher offices.

School Committee members have been doing that for years, and several of our greatest Presidents, Supreme Court justices, Senators and Congressmen won public confidence and promotions in this manner.

If the present members of the School Committee listen more to the people who demand PRACTICAL education and less to groups like the Strayer Commission, we are sure they will receive promotions, too.

U. S. ARMY lieutenant writing from China tells me the post exchange ration there is one cigar a month. "That's tough on us cigar smokers," says he. I'll say it is. Millions of cigars are being put aside for our fighting forces. I must find out why more don't get to China . . . A sergeant whose home is in Baltimore, Md., writing from Italy, states he has 300 combat days to his credit. His outfit has been battling the Germans all the way from Tunisia to Italy and on up from there. This soldier has been in the Army 34 months and for 29 of them has been overseas. Seems to me that lad and his buddies are about due for a little relief.

PLEASE NOTE: "I thought my sisters were stealing my perfume," writes a New Yorker. "But I have found that the tops on perfume bottles loosen and this causes perfume to evaporate. This can result in a serious loss in the case of expensive perfumes. The perfumers should improve their tops and make them air tight." (Note—The young woman brings up an interesting point. Still I was sorry to read she thought her sisters were stealing her perfume. Why is it when three or more sisters live at home they are always battling about borrowing or stealing each other's possessions? Brothers are not like that.)

WOMEN, ETC.: There certainly is no shortage of advice for wives whose husbands are absent with our armed forces. This type of advice seems a favorite subject of female writers. One feminine scribe dealing with the "How to handle the absent husband situation" says there is no reason why a wife should not accept an invitation to go to the theater with a male friend of the family or one of her husband's pals. However, she should be careful not to "create an intimate atmosphere." If she invites the man to her house or apartment she should not have a fire in a wood burning fireplace. This, says the feminine scribe, is an emotional hazard. Especially when the lights are low. It puts those watching the fire in a mood for love. Our Horses & Women department is checking over this claim. I must also discuss it with Judy Garland and other observant young women of Hollywood.

Binnie Barnes

I didn't see any barmaids when I was in Chicago. Thought I knew that town well but guess I will get a guide the next time I go there. The last beautiful barmaid I saw was in 1938 in a place near Piccadilly Circus, London. She was quite an "oomph girl." Looked something like Binnie Barnes.

ASIDES: Add songs popularized by Nora Bayes: "Down Where the Wurzberger Flows," "I'm On My Way to Dublin Bay," "Laddie Boy," "You Will Have to Sing An Irish Song," "It's Apple Blossom Time in Normandy," "Everybody Calls Me Honey," "How Are You Gonna Keep Them Down on the Farm After They've Seen Paree?" Nora popularized a lot of songs but not so many as Blanche Ring did . . . Am informed a Healdsburg, Cal., matron has cut her husband's hair for 46 years. Very unusual. Still, I know of a woman in Chicago who has given her husband a shave daily and a haircut and a shampoo weekly for 15 years. But she was once a professional barber.

CIGARS: Am not Scotch but certainly hate to throw away half of a good cigar when something prevents my finishing the smoke. Has been suggested to me that I save the butts and use them for pipe tobacco. That doesn't appeal to me. Another suggestion is to clip both ends of the butt and smoke it in a holder later. I don't like smoking cigars in holders. But I must think of something. A good cigar costs plenty nowadays. Besides, they are scarce. Therefore, why throw half of a cigar away when you have temporarily to stop smoking?

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright 1944, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17—As I may have told you, I am, by a happy social and temperamental quirk, an admiring friend of Jimmy Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, who has told the War Labor Board where to go and supplied a roadmap for its guidance and given President Roosevelt top priority for the same trip.

Westbrook Pegler

We meet now and again in the lobby or the men's bar of the Waldorf-Astoria, where Petrillo maintains a pied-a-terre, and, on a recent night, good fortune threw us together for a pleasant evening on the Century, devoted to that which, in the language of Mrs. Roosevelt, is called interesting discussion and, in our quaint, underworld patois, kicking the gong around.

That night, as often before, I congratulated my friend on his excessive conduct as a union racketeer and again urged him to take every advantage of the law as given him by President Roosevelt to the end that, in time, his patron would be publicly embarrassed and the people so outraged that Congress would be forced to revise the laws affecting unions.

It is gratifying to me to read that Jimmy has done this in refusing a personal request from Mr. Roosevelt to yield a fraction of the powers so recklessly conferred on him by the New Deal.

I feel that, by this oblique approach, I have achieved a more startling effect than might have resulted from a large measure of argument, citation and emotion.

OF COURSE, credit must be given to old Joe Padway, who has been serving Jimmy's group as counsel these last two years or so, for Padway knows the law better than any professional unioneer with the possible exception of John L. Lewis.

But I think Brother Joe would have assured Jimmy that his course was just and consistent with the interests of labor with an upper case L, whereas I have always taken the position that Petrillo's conduct was so atrocious and arrogant that, in time, he might, unwittingly, become the great reformer of his time.

Brother Padway is general counsel for the American Federation of Labor and for Uncle Dan Tobin's teamsters and the Movie and Theatrical Employees' Union, whose late leaders, Bioff and Browne, at last reports were rusticating in a pleasant federal jail, awaiting release under that automatic amnesty which the New Deal extends to individuals of the correct political faith.

SO HERE, strangely, you find Pegler and Brother Padway giving the same advice and counsel to Jimmy Petrillo, though never the twain have met, and find Jimmy standing firm in his refusal to rescind or even moderate his decision to levy a tax on every single unit of a popular commodity, namely phonograph and juke recordings.

The money does not pass into the hands of needy musicians. It remains in the treasury with no obligation that so much as a nickel of it shall relieve the want of an indigent Saturday night saxophonist.

It is, moreover, a tax on the general public, not the manufacturers of recordings, who pass the cost along to the customers and the precedent invites the Mine Workers, the Garment and Clothing Workers and all other unions to collect taxes on all articles for consumption or use without the slightest pretense that the money will be distributed to needy members in times of unemployment or any explanation or accounting whatever. Already Jimmy's treasury contains four million dollars and he anticipates a hundred million more.

ADVICE IS so often disregarded that I naturally admire the wisdom of Mr. Petrillo in accepting mine.

Once, when he was cited to face a committee of the Senate he asked me what he ought to do and I told him to tell them to go to hell because he was only exercising privileges which had been placed in his hands by the Senators themselves.

I was proud to read, a few days later, that he had, in very practical effect, followed my counsel and had got away with it. That incident and the current correspondence with Mr. Roosevelt in which, again Jimmy compliments my firm sagacity, is even more gratifying.

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 17—I couldn't pry a word out of David Selznick about "Notorious," the original story he bought for Ingrid Bergman. He was willing to tell me it is an original by Lois Anderson and that it concerns the post-war period, but he wouldnt reveal the locale nor a word about the plot. "It's a surprise," he said. It's Miss Anderson's first orignal, and if it is as good as the meticulous Mr. Selznick says it is something away from the conventional screen play.

February is the starting date and a writer has been put to work on the screen adaptation.

HAVING SEEN a dance Lucille Bremer does with Fred Astaire in "The Ziegfeld Follies," I am for her in "The Merry Widow." She's a new personality and besides being good to look at, the girl has charm. She and Fred are to be the stars of this delightful operetta and Arthur Freed, who is reviving it, will make "the Merry Widow" of 1945 into a light, gay, dancing musical, using of course, the beautiful Franz Lehar music.

BRUCE CABOT accepted Arnold Pressberger's offer to star in "Driftwood" with alacrity. Bruce is so tired of playing shady characters in the movies he let out a whoop when he found he had a chance to be a young man with sterling qualities. This "Driftwood" is a remake of "Conflict," which Arnold made in France before the war. It's to be directed by Leonid Moguy, who made the French version.

CLIFTON WEBB is really what we have been waiting for all these years. Not since Adolphe Menjou, with his subtle, sophisticated, satirical man-about-town screen characterizations fascinated us, have we had an actor with just what Clifton has on the screen. He's so delightful in "Laura" I hope he'll come back and make many other pictures. The dialog given him is so bright, "Laura" is what you'll really want to see. Gene Tierney wears clothes out of this world and I am glad to say she plays an American girl. All these years she has been hiding her light under a bushel by appearing in Oriental roles. Let's keep her an American girl.

JOAN CRAWFORD shouldn't have a complaint in the world when she starts "Mildred Pearce" at Warners. No girl could possibly ask for more than is being handed her. Because the Cole Porter picture has been postponed until later, she draws Michael Curtiz as director, and now her producer, Jerry Wald, has asked Anita Loos to write the screen play.

GENE FOWLER'S "Goodnight, Sweet Prince," even though a best seller, has not yet been sold to a studio for a motion picture. They returned to Hollywood immediately after the ceremony. The former wife of Capt. Stevenson, Anna Lee, well-known British actress, married Capt. George H. Stafford a few days after her Reno divorce. She made her first American appearance opposite Ronald Colman in "My Life With Caroline."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—Sen. Theodore Francis Green, chairman of the committee purportedly investigating the Battle of the Statler, is one of the wealthiest men in Congress. He has a nice nest egg to fall back on—and I hope it doesn't splatter him.

But, like a great many men who have had their dough a long time, the Rhode Island Senator often seems slightly out of this world. What I mean is, he acts vague about what is going on about him.

I have known a great many vague citizens and liked most of them imensely. They have something infinitely appealing. For instance, I do not recall anything that brought out the mother in me as much as Victor Moore's portrayal of Vice-President Throttlebottom.

As I said, there is a lovable quality to a man who goes around looking bewildered and uncertain. But I would just as soon not have him representing me in Congress!

UP TO DATE, Sen. Green has outvagued himself in his public utterances anent the Statler business. He even told us at a press conference that he couldn't—ha! ha! make up his mind whether it would be worth while to continue with the investigation.

I do not know for certain what his probe has revealed thus far, but I would guess not much. He may have heard that two naval officers were beaten up by members of the AFL Teamsters' Union, but I would not be astounded if he still feels that this is merely hearsay.

It may be that Sen. Green doesn't know what to investigate, and nobody will tell him. Situations like this develop all the time in Washington. Like the time Rep. Hale got pinched by a lady in mustake for Justice Frankfurter. They didn't know whether to investigate Hale, Frankfurter, or the lady.

But, if Senator Green does not care to distress good old Dan Tobin by investigating his teamsters, I will tell him something he can investigate.

He can investigate a very nasty whispering campaign that has developed from the Statler battle!

★ ★ ★

THIS WHISPERING campaign—the origin of which I cannot prove, but which I strongly suspect—is that the teamsters were the victims and the naval officers the culprits.

I HAVE HEARD it now from at least 20 different parties with almost as many variations. But I have had no luck in tracing it back to its source. The whisperers, when pressed, only look mysterious and say they got it "straight from the feed box."

Some day I am going to try to locate that "feed box." More things come out of it hereabouts than you can shake a ptomaine epidemic at. I think the United States Health Service ought to do something about it, too.

Anyway, the central theme of the whispering campaign is that the attack victims, Lt. Randolph Dickins, Jr., and Lt. Com. James H. Suddeth, were drunk and picked on the nice, amiable teamsters!

THE WAY IT is mostly told is that Dickins and Suddeth became alcoholically obstreperous outside the room where President Roosevelt had just delivered a speech to the teamsters. A couple of Tobin's most kindly peacemakers remonstrated mildly.

"Now lads," they are supposed to have protested, practically oozing oil for troubled waters, "this is no way for our true lads to act. Remember—the Commander-in-Chief is in the next room!"

To which the officers are supposed to have retorted they didn't care a fig well, maybe not a fig; I am editing this slightly about the Commander-in-Chief.

The teamsters are then supposed to have pleaded tearfully with the officers to depart quietly and in peace—and were still pleading when the officers brutally attacked them!

Well, I wasn't there—and I haven't been able to find any outside parties who will admit they were, 'although goodness knows I have tried. But I am convinced there couldn't possibly be a word of truth to the whispers!

If those officers had been drunk, and the onus could have been shifted to them, don't you think—knowing Uncle Dan's influence—that it would have been attended to that night?

★ ★ ★

DON'T FORGET every hotel, restaurant and cocktail lounge in this town is patrolled nightly. If Dickins and Suddeth had even been mildly potted they would have been grabbed.

In fact, the shore patrol did come in to quell the battle—and didn't think either officer had been drinking.

If you want any more evidence, Dickens and Suddeth were waiting for Com. Gene Tunney. And the former heavyweight champ is a very straight-laced gentleman. He doesn't make engagements with drunks!

Real Time Saver

By MARTHA LEE

IT'S a wise homemaker who plans her luncheon menus with both the meal at home and the lunch box in mind. Using the same menu for both, with slight changes, means time saved and food conserved. The lunches are likely to be more interesting and nutritious, too, and it's easier for the homemaker to plan the other meals, knowing the whole family had much the same food at noon.

LUNCH BOX HINTS

Small jars or paper cups with tight-fitting lids are useful for sending salad, pudding, nutted fruit or stewed fruit in the lunch box. Crisp relishes and lettuce are carefully wrapped in waxed paper. A hearty salad may be stuffed into a crusty roll or used as the filling of a sandwich. Ground left-over meat which is added to a spaghetti dish or put in an omelet for the home lunch makes a delicious sandwich spread with seasonings and mayonnaise added.

It is easy, when baking, to make "specials" for the lunch box such as cup cakes, turnovers or sweet rolls. Individual servings of dessert may be molded in the containers in which they'll be packed.

Here is an example of a "double duty" lunch menu, planned to use practically the same foods at home and in the lunch box.

HOME LUNCH

Ham Omelet
Enriched Bread and Butter
Raw Carrot, Pineapple and Raisin Salad
Milk to drink
Apple Brown Betty with Cream

LUNCH BOX

Deviled Ham Sandwich on Enriched Bread
Raw Carrot, Pineapple and Raisin Sandwich on Whole Wheat Bread
Milk or Hot Cocoa in Thermos
Apple Brown Betty in covered container

HAM OMELET

4 eggs separated — ½ tsp. salt
Dash of pepper — ¼ cup milk
1 tbsp. butter or margarine
Parsley
½ cup chopped cooked ham

Beat egg yolks until thick and light; add seasonings and milk; fold into stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into buttered, hot 9-inch frying or omelet pan and cook over low heat for 3 to 5 minutes, or until omelet puffs up and is browned on bottom. Test by raising edge of omelet with spatula. Place in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 10 to 15 minutes, or until top springs back when pressed with finger. Cut about 1-inch incisions at opposite sides and crease down through center in line with cuts; sprinkle chopped cooked ham over omelet, then fold carefully on crease by slipping spatula under half of omelet to fold over. Slip on to hot platter and garnish with parsley; if an omelet pan is used, merely fold over; omelet will shrink slightly when removed from pan. Serve at once. Makes about 6 servings.

APPLE BROWN BETTY

6 medium-sized apples
1½ cups moist bread crumbs
1½ tsp. cinnamon
1½ tbsp. butter or margarine
1-3 cup water — ⅓ cup sugar

Pare, core and slice apples; place half in casserole. Combine bread crumbs, sugar and cinnamon; sprinkle one-half over apples and dot with half the butter. Repeat with remaining apples, crumbs and butter. Sprinkle with orange rind; add water and cover. Bake in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) for 45 minutes. Serve with cream. Makes 6 servings.

Fashion Gives Facial Loveliness Beauty

THE SOOTY SPARKLE of satin is used to interesting effect in this distinctive Josef bag. The sleek drapery is caught up at each end in a casual knot effect. Its air of restrained elegance . . . in keeping with the new dressed look . . . makes this a stunning accessory for five and ten. Satins and velvets have developed an unmistakable affinity this fall.—R. M.

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

YOU MAY NOT DELIBERATELY strive to create an impression . . . but don't you hope you have? Now, don't you? It's only natural to invite flattery . . . and be thrilled beyond words when you're on the receiving end of such enviable praise as "How in the world do you keep your complexion so soft and smooth?" That's music to any gal's ears.

"I'm only a man," writes a reader. "But, even a man is aware of a lovely face. And, I'd like my girl friend to have the kind of satiny-smooth skin you write about. She has a porous complexion. She'd be a real beauty if this little fault was corrected."

"Little," the man says. Why, it is one of the most common complaints . . . and a plaguing one it is to the girl who yearns for a complexion as smooth as satin . . . and as exquisitely textured as the choice fabric. And, this being a season of satins, it is a downright necessity to satinize the skin . . . for how else is it to be receptive to flattering make-up?

Those enlarged pores which look like little pinheads dotting the countenance in the most conspicuous places . . . around the nose, chin and forehead . . . are arch destroyers of facial loveliness. They need contraction . . . if that rough and coarse skin texture is to be transformed into an expanse of dove-back softness.

SKIN-SATINIZER

True, your skin may not have a blemish . . . but many a skin that never courted an eruption may be dry and rough and porous to plague you . . . and those who must look at you. And, if you subscribed to the ordinary routine of a mild astringent . . . it may take years before the condition is corrected. Who wants to wait years? Let's make the most of our complexion today.

But, take heart and action in a special oil and meal astringent . . . an astounding combination of rich oils and nourishing meals . . . that will give extraordinary help to your face because it has contracting qualities that are truly amazing. It combines a peculiarly powerful astringent with a softening, refining tendency . . . which seems actually to work miracles on wide-open, active pores . . . and as it contracts the pores into ultimate nothingness, satinizes the skin in the process. You can actually see the rich cereals floating about in the bottle of rich oils.

For the name of this pore cleanser and skin-satinizer, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

IF YOUR SKIN TEXTURE IS COARSE . . . and if enlarged pores add to the facial dilemma . . . there is an amazingly quick-acting oil and meal astringent with contracting qualities to help reduce the pinheads into nothingness as it satinizes and refines the complexion. Blonde Dolores Moran has facial loveliness as one of her many charms.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Monday — Yesterday I went to the National Gallery of Art to see the exhibition of paintings done by Army Air Force painters. I was very much impressed by the collection. I hope there will be many more such paintings for us to see in the future, because there are still many activities that are not covered and have never been covered, as far as I know, in paintings.

The series of paintings done in the Aleutians are wonderful studies of rain, gray skies, and snow and shadows. They have the feel of cold and gloom which so many men write about from there. You could not have more interesting subjects than are portrayed in the many portraits, and they are treated with evident sympathy and interest by the artists. Planes have been used in this war for such a variety of activities, however, that I think to have a really valuable historical record much more will have to be covered than can be achieved in one exhibition.

LATER IN THE AFTERNOON I attended the dedication of the house at 1318 Vermont ave., which is to be the headquarters of the National Council of Negro Women. Eugene Meyer was there, and also A. E. Lichtman, who helped to raise the money which enabled the council to make the needed payments for acquisition of the house.

SUNDAY EVENING, R. Adm. Richard Byrd brought over his movie of his last expedition to the Antarctic, and it was a very thrilling account of adventure and of scientific achievements. I will never be able to understand how he lived through the months entirely alone; and yet today he looks young and strong and entirely recovered.

"LENGTHY CHAT?" If, on the street, you stop to speak to an acquaintance, make the conversation brief or else draw over to one side, out of line of pedestrian traffic. It's inconsiderate to "block traffic" while you stand chatting!

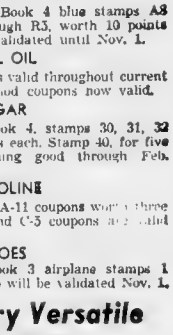
Turban Very Versatile

By BETTINA BEDWELL

A HAT THAT is very big in the styles, and one that is going to do practically everything for that simple, unfurred coat so many of you will be wearing, is the turban.



The turban that is in style is not one of those you can roll yourself on a rainy morning. It is something very grand and has to be done by a real milliner. But it is worth what it costs, and is going to save a lot of ears from frostbite and girls from head colds this winter.

A master with the turban is Lilly Dache, and one of her newest ones is sketched by Miss Dulin. It is made of gray and black striped taffeta, and these quiet colors make about the most effective drama you could find. The silk is draped high and rather wide at the top.

Such a turban is dressy enough to wear anywhere you go, though it has no glitter or bright color.

LANSDALE LOUISA DALEY of Dedham is another Hub post deb making good in the theatrical world after a start in Junior League and Vincent Club dramatics here at home. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Daley, she is currently playing the title role in "My Sister Eileen" at the Cleveland Playhouse.

She is very much at home in Cleveland now that it is the residence of her two attractive young aunts who preceded her by only a few years on the Hub debutante roster. They are her namesake, Mrs. Henry C. Harvey (Lansdale Watson), and Mrs. William J. Mixter, Jr. (Lewis Watson), both of whom are currently visiting Mr. and Mrs. Daley in Dedham.

10,000 See Mulcahy Win in New Guinea

By JACK CONWAY

HUGH MULCAHY of Brighton, former Phillies' star, pitched the baseball club of the 9th Army to victory before 10,000 servicemen at "New Fenway Park" in New Guinea, according to a letter received by this writer from Lt. John M. (Kewpie) Kilroy who played football at Boston College and later wrestled as a professional for Paul Bowser.

"I thought you might be interested to know," wrote Lt. Kilroy, "that the first hard baseball game ever played in New Guinea was played at a homemade field named 'New Fenway Park'.

Hugh Mulcahy

"The teams were made up of former major and minor leaguers. The reason I got such a kick out of the game was because Hugh Mulcahy, former Phillies' pitcher who lives in Brighton, was the 9th Army team's pitcher. Billy Mullen's Boston Park Department League certainly sent up some fine players.

"Sylvestri of the Yanks caught Mulcahy and turned in a masterful job.

"Little Johnny Tempesta of Roxbury played for the locals. Mulcahy was in the best of form and he mowed the opposition down.

"Ten thousand servicemen attended the game. They came to 'New Fenway Park' by jeep, tank, truck and on foot. They were all starved to see some real baseball.

"Al Schacht is also here. He clowned a little before the game, and the boys liked it.

"I talked with Mulcahy for a few minutes. He looks great and is filled with enthusiasm for army life and for baseball. Sylvestri told me that he thinks Mulcahy is a better pitcher than ever."

Mulcahy was one of the first ball players to enter service. He was in the army prior to Pearl Harbor. After service at Camp Edwards and at other camps in the United States, he was sent overseas.

Lt. Kilroy has helped train thousands of Army men for combat areas.

Sam Smith's Frankness

IT IS refreshing to occasionally meet a public official who is frank in his statements.

"I now realize I was in error when I ordered the Robinson-Jannazzo bout at the Garden resumed after Referee Tommy Rawson had rendered a decision in favor of Robinson," Commissioner Smith said to this writer. "Five seconds after I gave my order I regretted I had done so because I realized that under the rules of boxing the decision of the referee, right or wrong, is final.

"I was anxious to see the public get more action for its money, and I felt that on experienced fighter like Jannazzo was not in any physical danger. I felt Robinson would have scored a clean knockout. It was my judgment at the time that a boxer getting $2000 or so for a match must take a few punches."

Smith did not criticize Referee Rawson for his decision even though he felt it was a bit hasty. There is not any question in this writer's mind about Robinson's superiority over Jannazzo. The latter is not a match for Sugar, and if the bout had been permitted to have gone on Sugar in my opinion would have won in a few more punches. I did feel, though, that Referee Rawson's action was hasty.

The first important case of where a commission tried to overrule the decision of a referee was when Referee Jimmy Gardner gave Johnny Wilson a win over Bryan Downey in an Ohio ring on a foul. The commission insisted Downey had won Wilson's title on a knockout. This claim was not accepted by any other commission.

* * *

Rawson Acted Fairly

RAWSON HAD the best of intentions when he stopped the bout. With his background as a referee of amateur bouts, Tommy is schooled in preventing a defeated boxer from receiving unnecessary punishment. It is excellent judgment to stop bouts between amateurs when one boxer is outclassed. On account of the youth of the boxers and their lack of experience, there is always danger of a serious injury under such conditions.

This risk is not as great in professional boxing where the contestants are older and more experienced. The referee is also able to call upon a doctor representing the Boxing Commission for advice as to the condition of a boxer when he wishes it. This is frequently done when boxers have been cut, and it should be done more in other cases of injuries.

Jerry Zullo and St. Pierre to Battle

Jerry Zullo, Chelsea's fistic pride, will try to even things with Oscar St Pierre of Fall River tonight, when they meet in the feature bout of 10 rounds at the Bristol Arena, New Bedford. In their last setto, St Pierre scored a technical knockout over the Chelsea ringster, which the latter protested.

PERRYS SUSPENDED

The Massachusetts state boxing commission announced today that it had revoked the license of Frankie Perry (Frank L. Perry), welterweight boxer, of 254 Austin st., Hyde Park, and suspended indefinitely the license of George D Perry, manager, of the same address.

Purple Keeps Winning Without Scrimmages

By HUCK FINNEGAN

John "Ox" Da Grosa, Holy Cross coach, hasn't scrimmaged his Crusaders since the season opened. "Our ranks are thin," he told guests at the sports' writers' luncheon, "but in addition this squad doesn't need scrimmaging.

"They have the will to win, and I don't worry about them blocking or tackling in games. They love to play." H. C. scrimmaged Worcester Poly twice. Yale once before his team opened with Dartmouth. "That was enough to put them on edge," he said. The plan has worked admirably to date—HC 6, Dartmouth 6; HC 30, Temple 0; HC 26, Villanova 0.

* * *

But will it continue to work? Chuck Carney, while at Harvard, used to tell how Bob Zuppke scrimmaged his Illinois teams the third day out and would continue to scrimmage them all year. Frank Leahy was a stickler for scrimmaging and hard work, and his teams always seemed to escape serious injury. When Denny Myers took over at BC in '41 and met with disaster at Tulane at the season's outset, he was blamed on all sides for not having toughened his players with constant scrimmaging. He immediately changed his tactics. Herb Kopf was saying recently that he scrimmaged his Yanks 14 successive days. And those Yanks are tough. You don't see any of them stretched out on the gridiron between plays. So it will be interesting to see how HC fares in its future games, how it fares in the matter of injuries particularly.

* * *

Da Grosa is a post-prandial artist. He is philosopher, psychologist and raconteur as well as grid coach. "We have no Connor, no Koslowsky at HC this year and it is because of that, not in spite of it, that we've been winning," he insisted. "If they were around, we'd have two stars and a lot of hero-worshippers. But we have no stars, and every man on the squad knows he has a chance to become a Connor or Koslowsky and, by golly, they're all trying to be." Da Grosa paid such a high compliment to Leo Troy as a pass receiver however, that Troy can't be far away from stardom, and when Walter Sheridan steps into the backfield (Saturday, Da Grosa believes) HC-Brown game spectators will see a future Bertelli. Sheridan and Troy were the battery that carried Melrose High to an undefeated season in '43.

* * *

Boston College, playing New York U. at Fenway Friday night, has the field to itself this weekend. Tufts and Harvard are idle, and the Yanks will be playing the Eagles in Philly Sunday. Brown-HC at Worcester Saturday should draw heavily from the Greater Boston area.

* * *

Henry Lamar of Harvard was asked to comment on the Dartmouth-N. D. game and expressed amusement that an "acting head coach of an informal team" would be so honored. He extolled ND's blocking and tackling, its spirit. "I couldn't help notice that ball carriers would congratulate the boys who threw the blocks for them, that when ND had a four-touchdown lead they got as much enjoyment out of scoring as if each TD was their first of the year. Their offense was simplicity itself, nothing intricate. But the boys had mastered those fundamental plays so thoroughly, their timing was so synchronized that the plays clicked consistently . . ." Floyd Stahl added: "ND's great speed makes timing easy to attain. One slow man might ruin the machine, but they were all fast. Kelly Mr. Mercury himself."

Olympics Face Two Sessions

QUEBEC CITY, Oct. 17—After a day spent in drawing equipment and getting the feel of the ice, Coach Hago Harrington yesterday made his final plans for the beginning of serious workouts today for the 1944-45 Boston Olympics hockey club.

Coach Harrington said he plans double sessions daily in the Coliseum here, following the regular workouts of the Boston Bruins. The squad will practice in Quebec City for a full two weeks, returning to Boston October 29th.

The following day Hago plans to continue practice at the Arena in Boston until shortly before the Olympics open their season against the Rovers in New York, November 7th. The Pics' first home game is with Washington at the Garden, Saturday, Nov. 18th.

Once again the Olympics will have a working agreement with the Boston Bruins. Accordingly Harrington and Manager Art Ross of the Bruins will be working closely together the next two weeks. This season, incidentally, will mark Hago's eighth with the Pics.

Judge Landis to Leave Hospital Soon

CHICAGO, Oct. 17 (AP)—Baseball Commr. Kenesaw M. Landis, who entered St. Luke's Hospital shortly before the World Series for a physical check and remained to undergo treatment, proposes to return to his home within a few days.

The condition of the 77-year-old baseball executive was reported as greatly improved yesterday. He missed the all-St. Louis World Series, the first fall classic he has not attended since he was named commissioner in 1920.

A. L. Draws 4,798,158; Sox, B's Off

CHICAGO, Oct. 17 (AP)—The American League, offering one of the most spectacular pennant battles in major league history, drew a 1944 paid attendance of 4,798,158—approaching the circuit record and topping last year's total by more than a million fans.

Pres. Will Harridge, announcing attendance figures today, emphasized that the official total did not include 197,675 fans who attended war relief games which made an actual paid attendance of 4,955,-233. The league record is 5,433,-791 for the 1940 season.

The 1943 attendance, including war relief games, was 3,840,286. Harridge pointed out that 1944 attendance included 508,491 servicemen admitted free.

The Tigers, who were edged by the Browns on the final day of the season, finished with an amazing home attendance of 923,176 to set the pace in the banner season and surpass their 1943 following by approximately 300,000.

Attendance at American League parks topped National League figures by 619,414, figures released by Pres. Ford Frick of the senior loop disclosed. Both Detroit and New York topped the Giants, National League leader, in the number of paying fans.

Comparative figures, exclusive of war relief games:

Clubs	1944	1943
Detroit	923,176	600,287
New York	730,595	619,308
Chicago	583,539	555,862
Washington	525,148	475,084
St. Louis	508,644	214,392
BOSTON	506,575	357,275
Philadelphia	349,223	374,732
Cleveland	415,272	449,894

Although the flag-winning St Louis Browns finished fifth in home attendance with 508,644, their increase over 1943 was almost as great as Detroit's—a jump of approximately 294,000 from last year's attendance of 214,392. It was the largest season attendance for the Browns since 1924.

National League figures showed New York drew 733,598 fans this year, and other clubs: Pittsburgh, 653,912; Chicago, 640,110; Brooklyn, 618,193; St. Louis, 486,851; Cincinnati, 431,257; Philadelphia 369,586, and Boston, 245,197.

It's Notre Dame again. For the 12th straight week, including 10 weeks from last year, the Irish have been voted the nations' No. 1 college football team.

The unbeaten and untied South Benders, who last week snowed Dartmouth under by a 64-0 score, polled a total of 973 points from 107 sports writers in yesterday's Associated Press weekly poll, the second of the season. The Irish were ranked first on 59 1-3 of the 107 ballots.

Stuhldreher Expects Badgers to Beat Irish

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 17 (INS)—Coach Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin said today he really expected his team to score on Notre Dame, one of the most powerful outfits in the country, in their game next Saturday at Madison. He even hinted he would not be surprised if the Badgers pulled out a victory.

Bezdek Sings Wilson's Praise

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Oct. 17 (AP)—Light Horse Harry Wilson, Penn State and West Point football star, rates as "the greatest back" in the gridiron memories of Hugo Bezdek.

Bezdek, former Penn State and Oregon football coach, told the Donwtown Quarterbacks' Club here last night that Wilson "could do anything and do it well."

"Light Horse Harry is still playing the game," Bezdek said. "He's in a bigger game now, a colonel in Uncle Sam's Army in the Central Pacific and he's a bigger all-American than he ever was on the gridiron."

Penn's Schoolboy Star Going to Annapolis

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17 (AP) Tiny (Skippy) Minisi, Penn's sensational 17-year-old halfback, may be playing for the Navy next year.

The former Newark, N. J., prep star has received an appointment to Annapolis and will be eligible to play against the Quakers in 1945.

Music Fails 'Saint Thomas'

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17 (AP)—Tommy Reed, known in Fr. Divine's circles as St. Thomas, lost his first fight in 17 starts last night when Army Cpl. Melio Bettina knocked him out in 16 seconds of the third frame of a scheduled 10-round bout.

Bettina seemed a puzzle to the towering Negro, who made clumsy and ineffective efforts to reach the corporal with left-hooks. Wily Bettina kept moving inside, peppering the Saint from all angles, until the knock-out blow.

The Saint was soothed with the violin playing of Little David, another Fr. Divine follower, before he left his dressing room for the ring.

School for Hockey Kids, Fine Wrinkle

Boys who have their hearts set on playing hockey are to have a "Once in a lifetime" chance in just a few weeks. For there is to be an Amateur Hockey School at the Boston Arena from Tuesday, October 30 through Saturday, November 4th, and is to be under the direction of Hago Harrington, coach of the Boston Olympics and former National Hockey League star.

This school at the Boston Arena is to be one of many conducted throughout the country that week. Here it is to be under the sponsorship of the Eastern Amateur Hockey Ass'n in conjunction with "National Hockey School Week." In Madison Square Garden the school will be under the direction of Tommy Lockhart, in Philadelphia under "Red" McKenzie and in Baltimore by Leroy Goldsworthy.

These schools will give American boys their first chance of receiving expert instruction in the finer points of hockey and permit them to compete on an equal basis with young men across the Canadian border.

Coach Hago Harrington will be assisted by several of the Olympics' players. The classes will be from 9:30 to 11:30 each of the days from October 31st through November 4th.

Cornell Team Loses Star Ed Grygiel

Irish Ruffin Here for Bout

Robert (the Irish) Ruffin, of Astoria, L. I., is in Boston today to complete his training for his 10-round battle Thursday night at Mechanics Building with Vince Dell'Orto that will open the winter boxing season for the Callahan A. C.

Ruffin, with his father-manager Teddy Hubbs, plans to go through a light workout at Harry Kelley's gym, on Hanover st., to give the fans a chance to see him in action before he faces his hard-punching Italian-American opponent.

The black-haired Irishman has been busily engaged in grooming himself for the fight on Long Island and he wired the Callahan A. C. that he is sharper than the night he smacked the great Beau Jack so hard and so often than the Negro champion was ready to call it quits long before the final bell tolled.

Dell 'Orto also will complete his training sessions at Kelley's and expects to workout after the Ruffin party has left for the day. The Philadelphia puncher said he plans to use Ruffin as a stepping stone to a bout within the next few weeks at Madison Square Garden. "Irish" Bobby Ruffin, was matched yesterday to box Johnny Greco, at Madison Square Garden on the night of November 17.

DON was tired out. He poured a fresh drink. The old pain was back, the head heavy. But the senses were dull, too, and you didn't mind a bit. Put the glass down, it is heavy, it will spill; no, drink it; drink it to save it, then over to the couch for a little rest . . . He fell deeply into a dream.

He was in a vast low one-story auditorium like a gymnasium. Don sat on a rickety folding chair, other students were closely packed in. They sat shoulder to shoulder, pressed together filling the entire room.

A man in a gray suit, gray shirt, with gray hair and gray hands stood on the platform and spoke over the murmuring of the crowd. It was the foolish psychiatrist and Don seemed to sense that the burden of the talk was himself. Heads began to turn, but the students did not see him. The murmurs grew to a great roar.

The students rose up, chairs crashed and the building caved in. Suddenly they were on the campus. Don's fraternity house was at the far northeast corner. That's where Birnam was! The crowd began to run, carrying him with them, and the cry rose, "Get Birnam! Get Birnam!"

Was this, then, the end, this lynching now? He ran on, propelled by the single purpose of the mob. Then, a little ahead, he saw someone who fought there —toward him? He saw the young agonized face, the battling arms, the threshing shoulders of his younger brother.

He might have known that Wick would turn up. Wick of all people in the world would not let it happen. The throng swept along, oblivious of them. They touched hands. Wick pressed something into his palm. The fingers closed on a tiny box. Don snatched with his nails at the lid, slammed the pills into his mouth, and awoke in a pool of wet on the floor beside the couch.

How he must have wept. The rug was dark with it. He was weeping still and could not stop. Worse, there was no release from pain even now, in the stunning realization that it had been only a dream. He knew it was a good dream, it told him where help lay but was no comfort.

He wanted now to die. He got the bottle and drank the hot stuff as fast as it would go down, drank it all. Choking and gagging, with tears streaming from his eyes, he groped his way to the bedroom. He opened the door and fell upon the bed. At once he went off again into a dead sleep, a sleep that lasted, then, till the terrible day began, the day of terror . . .

English Defeated; Now Just Watch Out

By MIKE GILLOOLY

In the merry mix-up last week that found Melrose and Medford High School football teams dropping verdicts on the holiday, the fact that Boston English dropped its first decision since 1941—to Boston College High—failed to take its rightful place among the outstanding news bits in interscholastic competition.

Whereas, Melrose and Medford losses couldn't be classified as surprises, the English defeat was a distinct shock and jolt to English backers—and especially to Coach Bill Ohrenberger.

Actually, in Boston school ranks there is no race among half a dozen schools for the city championship. It's just a matter of beating the Blue and Blue to take over the crown. The in-town eleven that can topple an Ohrenberger outfit practically takes over the title automatically—and that has been proven down the years.

English High's status, this fall, was unchanged as the team shaped up as the one to top in its preseason workouts. The squad has balance and power, with only a touch of experience lacking to make it another cracker-jack club. If, as some fans do, you exclude B.C.H. from the city conference entries, English still ranks as the Yankees of the Boston circuit.

English will come back! And probably it will start this return to winning form this week against the rugged Trade eleven.

Coach Ohrenberger had only two veterans returning from last season's undefeated and unscored-on eleven. He could count on Capt. Frank Driscoll to take care of a tackle and Jack Maloney, a kicker and passer, to resume his place at quarterback. They would give the team the needed lift in touchy predicaments when the experienced player's value would be recognized.

Then, English had a trio of candidates who rated as first string substitutes last fall. Bill Northridge and Paul Bjorklund have now graduated to starting assignments on the wings and Bob Farrell, brother of Jack, has taken over a halfback berth. In that quintet, English again had the makings of another top-notcher.

And English still had capable reserves in backs Mike Czaja, Al Mahoney, Jack Harris and Bob Boutilier; ends Bill Ptau, John Cassell and Bob Etter; tackles Bill Blakeman and Bill Praught and guard Harvey Fagerstrom.

It looked like another banner campaign but the weatherman forced a postponement of the opener so that there was no test for the team before facing B. C. H. But Coach Ohrenberger isn't the least bit worried about his boys. They'll be back in the midst of the title fight just as soon as they correct the mistakes they made in their opener. You can always depend on Coach Ohrenberger for a battle.
